

Reflection week five

The fifth week we only had one scheduled supervision session and two group meetings that we had scheduled ourselves. We have also started with daily stand up meetings.

- What do I want to learn or understand better?

This was the last week I spent as a product owner, it's also the second time I've been PO. I would say that I was a more productive PO this time since I knew how to role play out better. I've also spent a lot of time figuring out how to design a website using Figma or just going into the HTML code. I did not manage to get any results so I'd wish to learn how to work in HTML and css files better inorder to design the website.

- How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

This week I talked about how my task didn't go as planned for me since I couldn't show any results. Therefore during the sprint review I said that I should have communicated this sooner, that way I might have gotten help or at least worked on something else. I've also contributed on what direction the project is going during meetings and so on.

- What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I've also contributed to my PO role, that is prioritizing the task for the week as well as looking at what everyone has done to briefly comment on it. I've also contributed as usual during meetings.

- What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

Not too much this week unfortunately, maybe just that we came to the conclusion to not focus too much time on the design rather than the core functionalities and try to communicate ive we have bigger issues during the week. Although i'd like to point out that i've spent more than two times the estimated time for my task, trying to get any kind of result to show.
